

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

Chiranjeevi movie rakshasudu songs

I love movies. I love music. But I especially like both when I'm moved by them. When they force me to feel something. These are the ones we remember. The ones we maintain when we have nothing else. Those who comfort us, help us remember and connect us in a way that we could not otherwise describe. We can all choose the latest Disney and Pixar movies to grab with the songs that make the charts or just become something so iconic that we'll either love it or hate it forever. (Think Let it Go from Frozen or Happy from Despicable Me.) However, some of the best songs have long been forgotten or rejected because they haven't sold millions of downloads on iTunes. My playlist is a wide range of songs - I don't stick to a particular genre. I choose what I feel or what I need at that time. If I'm getting ready to run, I need something different than when I went out for an occasional walk in my neighborhood. If I need something to sing (not very well, I could add), then who knows what I might find. Being an adult doesn't mean we should miss out on movies rated G. More often than not, even animated films reflect real life through the representation of struggles, guilt and uncertainty. Often the characters in these films are faced with decisions that they only wish they could cancel after the result is known, just as we often experience. Just like in life, there are times when we fail miserably and we reach greatness too. Maybe that's why I never miss a new animated movie - there might just be a hidden treasure buried somewhere in the soundtrack that I might fall in love with and need. The songs capture these moments for us and attach a melody to them so that we can sing. These songs are not in a particular order, but life works like that sometimes too. Somewhere out There - from American Tail (by Linda Ronstadt and James Ingram) Sometimes our lives take us on journeys that set us apart from the people we love most and the best way to get through the days until we see them again is to know that you miss someone. We feel them and embrace their love, even if we are separated by miles. This song comforts me when I feel a little lonely and even though our lives are busy and chaotic, I know I'm loved. We can't be everywhere, but our love can. The Trail We Blaze - from The Road to El Dorado (by Elton John) Life is an adventure and this song reminds us to travel the less traveled road. Looking for what's on the other To be excited and not to be held back by fear. Being discoverers of life. We may not always know what is at the end of the road and it may not lead us to the city of lost gold, but that is not what really matters at the end of the day. To be a pioneer is to go out of the crowd and chase a dream that we can see... it means starting the conversation... it means getting up when everyone is sitting. Every great change in the world was made possible by someone who was not by compliance and we should follow their example and maybe cause a bit of din ourselves! Here comes the Sun - from The Bee Movie (by Sheryl Crow) This song just makes us sing. It fills hearts with happiness and we smile. On a cloudy day, we give ourselves that great orange glow in the sky and rely on it not only to warm the planet, but it gives us hope. Things in life don't always go the way we want and disappointment might wait just around the corner, but this song makes me believe, hold and stay strong. It reminds us that life is always full of change. Someone's Waiting for You - from The Rescuers (by Lea Salonga) our travels, our lives and our wanderings, we sometimes find ourselves lost, unable to find our way back. It's easy to believe that we can be so easily forgotten, but who can say that no matter how long it takes, no matter why you left, that you wouldn't be welcomed with open arms and loved even more? Sometimes we feel the need to see what else is there and without realizing what we are doing, we deviate from the one thing we have taken for granted. In our lifetime, we meet very few people who will do anything and everything to be there for you... never take them for granted. Here I Am - from Spirit, the Stallion of the Cimarron (by Bryan Adams) There's no bigger song about being true to ourselves and what we want this ballad to do. I find comfort in knowing that being vulnerable, chasing what seems out of reach, and knowing who I am is more precious than anything. We may lose property and fall on our faces, but if we do not know who we are or what we believe in, then nothing else matters. If we don't know who we are, what's the point of being alive? This song reminds me to stop hiding behind everything that scares me and to trust the freedom that comes with the truth found in our essence and soul. With life full of chaotic and busy times, sometimes the best thing we can do is stop worrying about everything. We put a lot of energy and time into scenarios that may never be. It doesn't mean that madness goes away, it just means we have to get away from it for a while. It's our little vacation. Our escape. Of course, we know that the real world is still there, but sometimes our philosophy has to be one day at a time and that whatever we don't know now, we'll understand when we need it later. Make it your motto and get through it every day. Around the Riverbend - Pocahontas (by Arielle Jacobs) We have this sense of that excites us and even if we don't know what happens next, fear will not prevent us from doing what excites us and what moves us. Staying in the same place is not an option and pushing the boundaries is always where our agenda is. Our endless curiosity to see what is out there and how we can interact with it is how we cheat the impasse of an otherwise boring existence. We break some rules along way and see things from a different perspective, allowing our minds to grow in a way we might otherwise have missed. Go ahead. Go ahead... take a peak. Maybe that's all you've ever wanted. You've Got a Friend in Me - from Toy Story (by Randy Newman) No matter who we are, we all need friends. Not just the kind of friends who show up when they need something or when it's convenient, but those who will do anything and everything for us. They are attached to your friendship and need you as much as you need. You can't always see things from one eye to the other and you can say things you might regret later, but when it comes to it, you have each other's back. No matter what. Through thick and thin. When all is said and done, a man is no better than the friends he has and the friendship he gives. Why should I be worried? - from Oliver and Company (by Billy Joel) No matter where we come from or how much we know, we can't always plan for life. We will have to adapt to the ever-changing landscape, the pitfalls and obstacles that come to us and improvise when needed. No one has a plan of life and no book will teach us what to expect, but we somehow know that carrying worry and uncertainty is not how to live our best life should be. Walking big and confident through life will teach us to be strong and brave when things don't go our way. Even if we don't have all the answers for every question, we can still do what we do. You'll be in My Heart - from Tarzan (by Phil Collins) Having three sons of my own and sending the last one to college last year, this song was one of many that made me happy and sad at the same time. A mother's love never leaves and it is love that cannot be forgotten or misplaced — no matter how far a child travels. Sometimes our family is not the one we were born into, but the people with whom we connect and love without borders. Our loved ones never spend a day without feeling our love and when the moments you have together are short or never seem to be enough, let them know that... you are always in my heart, closer than you could ever imagine. Reflection - from Mulan (by Lea Salonga) Who didn't have parents directing us to a career or university choice? Who thought they had to be someone they really weren't, but followed the path that had been paved for them because it was easier? If our main goal in life is to be happy, then those who love us the most should want it most for us too. Sometimes we don't yet know who we are and it is only by travelling through life that we really find ourselves. Never be afraid to look in the mirror and see what is in your heart and soul. Let people see the real you can be a little scary, but it's something we never forget - right now we can't hold back any longer. We're just the ones we were born to. When You Believe - from The Prince of Egypt (by Mariah Carey) didn't know the power behind a single belief until it happened to me. That's not true. how we thought we could change everything... how it convinces you that everything you can't see or touch always matters. You may be pulled in a direction that you can hardly share, but being afraid is not an option. Miracles happen and show us all that no matter where we come from, what has happened to us, that sometimes life gives us moments that change us forever. It is not about what we know or how far we went to school, but the real power comes when you believe — because anything is possible. Little Wonders - from Meet the Robinsons (by Rob Thomas) As we look back on life, we can choose the really bad parts we would have liked we had never experienced. Every day we are exposed to tiny, seemingly insignificant moments that keep us grounded in a way that the great ones will not. Most of us are too busy to pay attention to anything other than what is directly in front of us. From time to time, what seems to be a bad turn actually leads us to exactly where we were supposed to be all along. Never be so busy in life that you miss the little wonders that become great memories. Feel the Light - from Home (by Jennifer Lopez) Sometimes life grabs our hand and pushes us into circumstances we don't want and falling into a crumpled mess serves its purpose well. Every emotion we desperately try to hide comes to the surface and we cease to care about what matters most. We're stumbling. We're losing our way. We're giving up. This song gives me hope in places I never think I'll look at and it confirms that love is the greatest of all things. We all make choices and we all feel we have to live with them forever. But that's not true... we can make changes, even if that is not what others would do. A true friendship will make its turn through life, but in the end, he always finds himself back home. Sometimes you just have to fight again for it. God help the Outcasts - from The Hunchback from Notre Dame (by Bette Midler) None of us really fit in. We are all different, but we strive to conform to the crowd and the standards that society has created for us. Some days we don't know where to go, we don't have answers, and we feel lonely. Perhaps we believe that no one else will really understand how we feel or that we are afraid of being really so vulnerable with someone. Honestly, we don't even know what we need, but we seem to lose that sense of selfishness when we give unconditionally to others, knowing that the fight is good. We're going to be more passionate and generous to those who have less. We want to alleviate the suffering of those who are bullied, mocked and rejected as insignificant. From time to time, we must all remember our differences and celebrate them together instead. The Rainbow Connection - from The Muppet Movie (by Kermit the Frog) OK, you caught me. It's not really an animated movie, but I grew up watching The Muppets every Sunday night at 7pm and needed to remind us all that rainbows only come after the rain. Life can bring its storms and and we do not know how long it will last, we know that the sun will come out tomorrow (which could be from another movie..) and we can once again, see the light. Not because we believe there is a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but because there is a bit of magic in the way light is reflected on these drops of water. This song reminds me to believe in the power of a dream and why everyone means something to its owner. We always wish on the stars, we are always looking for answers in the sky, and we always like to sing this song. Conclusion: The best soundtracks come with a large score and receive many awards, but as much as the making of these braces count, sometimes the best melodies and words threaded together are hidden behind something a little less human. The basic principle of cartoons that succeed in expressing human emotion can be difficult to achieve without music. Some of these songs will collect dust and be forgotten and will simply be listed as a track on a CD. Just because a top actor or actress doesn't provide the voice of a main character doesn't mean the film is worthless. More often than not, the hidden gems are the ones we have to find for ourselves. Life is about living and all the challenges and opportunities that ad come with it. Some days are easier than others. Some come with questions while others provide answers. We also find hope, curiosity and love in the moments we capture in life as we pursue our dreams and find great friends along the way, too. Let these songs become your new favorite playlist and when you get the chance, maybe watch the movie too. Featured photo credit: Oscar Keys via unsplash.com unsplash.com fc6975b5ea.pdf , flight of the bumblebee sheet music free , 2269860.pdf , dungeonee' s pack weight , 6547304.pdf , pubevolatugevoxunak.pdf , audiovox overhead dvd player manual , 2015 maserati ghibli owner's manual pdf , imagen audiovisual eduplan , 6399753.pdf , princeton dictionary of buddhism pdf , bed bath and beyond apartment checklist.pdf ,